13                   LISA MARIE CALLANDER,

14                   Defendant.

CASE NO. CR05-264C

ORDER

15                   This matter comes before the Court on Defendant's Petition for Review of Magistrate Judge's 16 Order Regarding Conditions of Release (Dkt. No. 9). The Court has considered the papers submitted by 17 the parties, and having heard oral argument, hereby finds and rules as follows.

18                   This Court shall, upon motion, promptly conduct a review of a magistrate judge's order of 19 detention. Local Rule MJR 11; 18 U.S.C. § 3145(b). Magistrate Judge James P. Donohue ordered 20 Defendant detained pending trial upon concluding that no conditions or combination of conditions could 21 reasonably assure the defendant's appearance at future Court hearings. (See Ex. A to Def.'s Pet., June 22 27, 2005 Detention Order.) Defendant requests this Court reverse Judge Donohue's order, arguing that 23 she is neither a danger to the community nor a flight risk. The government, however, has met its burden
24 of showing by a preponderance of the evidence that the Defendant does pose a risk of flight since she is a

26 ORDER - 1

1 resident and citizen of Canada with no legitimate ties to the United States who is facing substantial
2 penalties if she is found guilty of the charged offense. Defendant has failed to convince the Court that 3 Judge Donohue erred in ordering that Defendant be detained pending trial. Accordingly, Judge
4 Donohue's June 27 Detention Order is hereby AFFIRMED.
